Many college students often struggle with financial stress due to limited income, unexpected costs, and poor budgeting making it hard to track spending or save. Without proper tools or knowledge, managing finances becomes challenging. To address this, a budgeting web application will be developed to help students track spending, visualize financial habits, set saving goals, and access tailored budgeting tips, ultimately aiming to promote financial literacy and decision-making.